

Dr. Bethune had a keen interest in international events and exposed her students to international and national leaders of the day such as Ralph Bunche, Madame Pandit and President Harry S. Truman. As a result of her global influences, in 1945 Mary McLeod Bethune attended a conference in San Francisco that would create the United Nations.